To Try Trout Stream Test

An experiment that could materially improve Michigan trout fishing will get under way on a northern lower peninsula stream this fall.

Fish research workers plan to remove all coarse fish such as suckers, creek chubs and mudminnows from a stretch of the stream and then introduce about the same poundage of hatchery trout.

The question is how seriously do rough fish interfere with production and food of trout. Some believe competition for food in a stream may be fierce, and a prime factor in keeping trout down.

Hatchery trout, for example, are distributed in Michigan streams on the so-called "put and take" plan. The hatchery puts the trout in and soon after the fisherman takes them out. This program provides an immense amount of recreation for the state's fishermen, but it has some drawbacks.

One trouble is that a hatchery must space its plantings in a stream over the length of the trout season. This is done to assure a continual supply of fish for the angler. If one planting per year could supply a stream with trout, hatchery costs might be reduced.

Also, few if any trout planted in a stream remain to become brood stock. For some reason

Income Tax May Be In The Future For Citizens Of Michigan

A STATE INCOME TAX is being pushed by economists and government leaders.

The new levy is expected to be the key point of the search for more money during the 1959 legislative session, hard on the heels of a heated election year.

Income tax, long thought to be the fairest levy possible, remained as a theory for Michigan until the legislative tax study committee came up with a tentative report a week ago.

"Even as a flat rate tax, it is the most equitable and progressive levy," said the report.

Experts working with the committee said that the heaviest tax burden now falls on low-income groups, while the income tax is spread with equal impact over all income groups.

Other sections of the report, however, said that low-income groups, which now pay a disproportionate share of the state's revenue, benefit most from the income tax.

In Michigan, the constitution requires that the state tax rather than allowing a graduated tax schedule, similar to that used in computing the brackets of the federal income tax.

The way around that, lawmakers of the committee said, is to levy a uniform tax by rate and provide exemption, either $600 a year like the federal government or $1,000 a year, like some states.

Republican cognate of the state's financial crisis, appropriate extra money for the legislative budget because they anticipate a longer session in 1959 to handle tax problems.

The income tax has drawn theoretical — but not necessarily political — support from key figures in both the Democratic and Republican parties.

The timing of the legislative study took them off the hook in an election year.

Several years ago, an income tax proposal came before the legislature with a $10,000 exemption and a 1 percent rate on income over $10,000. It failed to get out of committee.

The only outspoken advocate of the income tax in recent years has been Senator Frank Andrews and he has been the target of criticism from the lawmakers.

Whether it becomes law in Michigan and the details of exemptions and the rate will be the subject of the lawmakers' next winter.

NO MASS LAYOFFS in state government because of the economy budget are expected to materialize.

Springtime is rhubarb time. The appearance of rhubarb in the early spring is a signal for the beginning of harvest of fruits and vegetables throughout the area.

The fresh rhubarb supply will be at its best and prices will be at their yearly-low until mid-June.

Good quality rhubarb is fresh, firm, crisp, tender and red or pink in color. The stalks should be fairly thick.

Rhubarb is eaten more for its tart flavor than for its food value.

To keep rhubarb crisp and cool remove the leaves and throw them away. Wash the stalks - pat off excess moisture and put them in a moisture-proof container - like a plastic bag. Store in the refrigerator until ready to use.

While rhubarb is plentiful, freeze or preserve some for later enjoyment. No product is easier to freeze. Use or the best fresh stalks. Wash and cut into pieces to fit containers. Do not peel. Pack dry in moisture, vapor-proof containers without sugar.

And pie for dessert are some of the sweetest words the family ever hears. Make fresh rhubarb pie for a positive winner and just because it's spring, make it a lattice top. The family will get the full benefit of how good the pie looks.

For an 8 or 9-inch pie you'll need 2 pounds of rhubarb. When you make rhubarb pie, add a dash of nutmeg and a bit of orange juice to accent the good rhubarb flavor.

DELICIOUS RHUBARB PIE
1 1/2 tablespoons minute tapioca
1 1/4 cups sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup grated orange rind
1 tablespoon melted butter
3/4 cups pink rhubarb (cut in one-half inch pieces)

1 recipe pie crust. Combine all ingredients - let stand 15 minutes. Line a pie tin with pastry. Fill with mixture - moisten edge of pastry with cold water and arrange lattice of strips. Flute rim with fingers. Bake in hot oven (450 F.) 15 minutes. Then decrease to 350 F. for 30 minutes or until filling is cooked.

The Bottom Hasn't Fallen Out . . .

There is no point in minimizing the unemployment problem in this country. At the same time, there is an obvious danger that we may be led into wildly exaggerating it.

As of a late date, the Wall Street Journal points out the unemployed amounted to about seven per cent of the total work force. By way of comparison, the figure of the worst of the great depression of the 30's was 30 per cent. The lowest figure—three to four percent—was reached during the postwar boom.

"Therefore," the Journal says, "when we attempt to appraise the present state of the economy in terms of unemployment we should remember that seven per cent out of work, while personally distressing, is mathematically excessive only when compared with the best years any economy ever had."

We all hope that the seven per cent of the work force who are now unemployed will find jobs soon. Meanwhile, it will do no one any good to act as if the bottom has completely fallen out of the economic structure. It hasn't. Despite the recession, the vast majority of the American people are far better off, materially speaking, than their equivalents in any other country on this earth.

Is The Back Door Open? . . .

History records that while the Christians were holding the City of Constantinople in the 15th century behind its massive hundred foot high wall, an enemy soldier discovered a back door in the wall, open and unguarded. While the Christians battled from the parapets, the Moslems slipped through the unguarded door and the city was taken.

The United States is perhaps as impregnable from outside attack as was Constantinople but it may also be as vulnerable from within. While our country is spending billions of dollars for defenses to protect itself from freedom-destroying invaders, is it leaving a back door open?

A socialistic trend that has persisted in the U. S. in recent years continues to encroach on private citizens and industry. The affairs of the country fall more and more under the control of invading bureaucracy. Thus we are gradually breaching our defenses of individual opportunity and personal liberty.

Editor John Fischer of Harper's Magazine tells of the policy certain California judges have adopted toward litterbugs: "When a culprit is hailed into their courts for littering the roadside with beer cans, sandwich wrappers, and similar debris, these judges do not impose a fine. Instead they sentence the guilty motorist to a term—ranging from a few hours to a few days—of picking up trash along the highways."

THE Emmy awards for "the best in television" have been handed out for another year and while most of them were deserved we can't help but wonder out loud about certain omissions. . . . We were happy to see Dinah Shore come in for her share of glory because we know of no one else who so deserves it. . . .

She's sunny and bright and has the very happy knack of being able to lift the most disheartened viewer out of his doldrums. . . . She's an extremely hard worker and will do most anything to improve the show.

We thought Jack Benny's award for all-around excellence was well deserved, too, but thought the one he received for the best job of portraying himself should have gone to Perry Como, who was sadly neglected this year.

We thought, too, that her colleagues could have paid tribute to Gracie Allen. . . . This great comedienne ends 36 years of show business with her retirement this season. . . . She looks just as young and is just as zany-in-a-pleasant-sort-of-way as always and we scowled when she was ignored last year.

Another serious omission in our book was Playhouse 90's production of "The Miracle Worker." . . . Here was a tensely dramatic, terrifically performed play about Helen Keller as a child that held the viewer completely enthralled. . . . Yet neither the stars, the director or the writer won a dandelion for their achievement. . . . Instead, an unoriginal story about a show business personality, "The Comedian," won the Emmy for the best writer, Rod Serling, who also won last year with a lightweight. . . . as about a heavyweight.

We are all happy to have our song birds back with us once more. The robins, song sparrows, chipping sparrows, gold finch, king birds, wrens, flickers and our swallows are all busy building their nests. The air fairly buzzes with their sweet songs and call notes, which is all very welcome after their long absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Erving Rooker of Saginaw spent a few days at their cabin near the Twin Bridges.

YOU have a BIG STAKE

because it'll come out of YOUR pocket!

Most people have become aware, by now, of the serious financial condition of the nation's railroads. This has been brought about by unfair and discriminatory regulation that does not permit the railroads to compete on an equal basis with other forms of transportation. We are FORCED, by federal regulation, to hold our rates up to levels that "protect" less efficient modes. The result? We lose business.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN TO YOU? Just this: The railroads are the only form of transportation that pays its own way (no free roads, no free waterways, no free airports, no subsidies of any kind). AND, in addition, WE PAY HEAVY TAXES FOR THE SUPPORT OF YOUR SCHOOLS. Last year Michigan railroads paid OVER EIGHT MILLION DOLLARS for this purpose. No other carrier pays a dime to this fund!

DO YOU WANT TO ASSUME THIS BURDEN? Of course not. The schools desperately need this money, and everyone wants them to have it. BUT—if the railroads are forced into bankruptcy by unfair regulation, YOU will have to make up the lost taxes.

WHAT CAN YOU DO? It's very simple. Just write a letter to your Congressman in Washington. For a mere three cents you can tell him you would like him to support Senate Bill 3778 (the Smathers bill) or the Harris Bill in the House to help the railroads get fair play. And while you're at it, write also to your two Senators, Hon. Chas. E. Potter and Hon. Pat McNamara, United States Senate, Washington, DO IT TODAY!

Remember, we are asking for no favors, no subsidies — JUST FAIR PLAY
